

STUDENT SESSION

Crate Check

Names: _____ & _____ Class: _____
 Date: _____

You are the AI. The crate below is your training data — every song you have ever "heard." House rules:

- Rule 1: You can ONLY serve cards from the crate. No inventing songs mid-game.
- Rule 2: You never refuse a request — serve the closest card you've got, the way a recommendation feed always serves you something.
- Rule 3: Rate every serve honestly. The ratings are the data.

INPUT — the crate: every example the AI studied

PATTERNS — training: what usually goes with what

OUTPUT — the mix: its best prediction from those patterns

🎯 SERVE THE REQUEST LINE

DJ: pick your best card. Both partners rate the fit: ✓ Nailed it • ~ Close-ish • ✗ Crate can't do it

REQUEST	BEST CARD IN YOUR CRATE	FIT
Keisha needs a hype anthem for the basketball team's tunnel walk.
Nia wants something calm to study to before the math test.
Tomás wants a song in Spanish for his abuela's birthday dinner.
Priya needs a slow song for the last dance at the 8th-grade dance.
Malik wants an opener that makes the whole party jump at once.
Jordan wants a quiet acoustic track for the talent-show sing-along.

🎯 CRATE GAP REPORT

Who does this crate serve really well?

Who does it leave out — and what do they get served instead?

Say back + build: One gap my partner noticed (in their words):

What I'd add to their idea:

🎯 DOCTOR THE CRATE

Invent 3 new cards that fix the biggest gaps. Title + genre + vibe — make them up!

🎯 EXIT TICKET

1. Finish the chain: INPUT → _____ → OUTPUT. In your own words, what does an AI actually do with its crate (training data)?

2. A school's new AI homework helper explains everything with football examples — never anything else. Using the word crate, explain what probably happened, and who it doesn't serve well.
