

UNIT OVERVIEW & PACING GUIDE

AI Literacy Unit

Six 45-minute lessons. No prep, no devices required. Teach them in order for the full arc, or pull any single lesson — each one stands alone.

✦ THE UNIT AT A GLANCE

#	LESSON	STUDENTS LEARN TO...	THE HOOK
1	How to Talk to AI	Write prompts a literal AI can't twist (P.R.O.)	AI is a literal genie
2	What's in the Playlist?	Explain how AI learns; find bias in a dataset	Training data is a playlist
3	Hallucination Hunters	Fact-check AI output; lateral-read claims	A newsroom fact desk
4	Teach AI Your Taste	Use AI for feedback, then revise their own work	Your For-You Page
5	Robots Do the Boring Work	Argue automation tradeoffs; think about future jobs	A studio task board
6	Lead Your AI Squad	Brief a team, assign roles, check the work (capstone)	You're the party leader

✦ THE THROUGH-LINE

Human → AI → Human. Every AI job has two human parts: a person starts it (the prompt) and a person ends it (the check). Those two jobs are the whole skill, and they transfer to every AI tool your students will ever touch. Lesson 1 trains the start; Lesson 3 trains the check; Lessons 2, 4, 5 and 6 each show where the human at each end has to step in — the gap in the playlist, the taste file you hand over, the call only a person makes, the loot only the leader checks.

The honesty policy, in one sentence students remember: AI is your editor, not your ghostwriter.

✦ PACING OPTIONS

IF YOU HAVE...	DO THIS
Six class periods	One lesson per day, in order. The capstone lands on day 6.
Six weeks (one period/week)	One lesson per week. Open each with a 2-minute recall: "what were the two human jobs?"
Three block periods	Pair them: 1+2 (how to talk to it / how it thinks), 3+4 (check it / shape it), 5+6 (decide what it does / lead it).
One period, ever	Lesson 1 alone delivers the highest-value skill. Lesson 3 if your focus is media literacy.
A sub tomorrow	Lesson 5 — zero devices, zero prep, and the task-board sort runs itself.

◆ STANDARDS ACROSS THE UNIT

Each lesson's teacher guide prints where its standards are taught and where they're assessed. Full verbatim text lives in each guide.

LESSON	ANCHOR STANDARDS
1 · How to Talk to AI	ISTE 1.5.c · ISTE 1.3.b · CCSS ELA W.6.4
2 · What's in the Playlist?	CSTA 2-IC-21 · ISTE 1.1.d · CCSS ELA SL.6.1
3 · Hallucination Hunters	CCSS ELA RI.6.8 · ISTE 1.3.b · ISTE 1.3.d
4 · Teach AI Your Taste	CCSS ELA W.6.5 · ISTE 1.6.b · CCSS ELA SL.6.1
5 · Robots Do the Boring Work	CSTA 2-IC-20 · CCSS ELA SL.6.4 · ISTE 1.3.d
6 · Lead Your AI Squad	ISTE 1.5.c · ISTE 1.7.c · CCSS ELA W.6.4

◆ WHAT'S IN EVERY LESSON

For you

- Scripted plan with timed blocks that total 45 minutes
- Teacher guide: answer key, exemplars, discussion moves
- Standards with taught/assessed evidence
- Support, extension, and ELL variants

For students

- 2- to 3-page worksheet with honest write-in space
- A real activity — partners, roles, and something to defend
- An exit ticket that measures the objectives
- Reading level pitched at grade 6

◆ RUNNING IT WITH NO DEVICES

Every lesson is designed to work on paper. In Lessons 1, 2, 4, and 6 the students and teacher play the AI — which is often the better lesson, because a human being deliberately literal is funnier and more memorable than a chatbot. Where devices help, each plan says exactly what they add.

◆ BEFORE YOU START

- Set your class AI rule out loud on day one. "AI is your editor, not your ghostwriter" is the whole policy; Lesson 1's teacher guide has the full discussion script.
- You don't need to be an AI expert. Every plan gives you the lines. If a student asks something you can't answer, the honest answer — "let's check that" — is the lesson.
- Expect the fact-checking lesson to be the sticky one. Students remember catching the machine being wrong.

Thank you. A review helps other teachers find this unit, and following the store gets you new Future Skills drops the day they land — money and risk, entrepreneurship, and game design are on the way. Something off? Leave a question on the listing before a review; we fix fast.