THE PARTY LEADER LESSON

Lead Your AI Squad

AI does the quest —
YOU check it before it ships.

Grades 6–8

45-min lesson

No prep • No devices needed

STUDENT SESSION • YOU'RE THE PARTY LEADER

Run the Quest

Name: _____ Class: _____ Date: _____

Everyone is a party member AND a leader. Steps 1–2 you're the leader; in Step 3 you switch and play an AI agent for your team's card; in Step 4 you're the leader again. An AI agent does a multi-step job on its own — and where your card is vague, it guesses forward. So the leader checks, using the loop: QUEST CARD → ROLES → CHECK THE LOOT → SHIP IT or RUN IT BACK.

Party = your team of 3; a party member does one job. Roles = who does which slice. Quest card = the job, written down in four parts. Loot = the finished work. SHIP IT = good to go. RUN IT BACK = do it again.

✓ STEP 1 — PICK YOUR QUEST (TEAM OF 3, CHECK ONE)

GAME NIGHT PAGE — a one-page flyer that gets grades 6–8 to show up

CLASS MAGAZINE, ISSUE #1 — the plan for the first issue of a magazine your class makes

✓ STEP 2 — WRITE THE QUEST CARD (ONE PER TEAM; EVERYONE COPIES IT)

GOAL

What does winning mean?

WHAT WE KNOW

Who is it for, and what does the team already have?

RULES OF THE RUN

Limits: length, time, deadline

WHAT IT LOOKS LIKE

The exact thing handed back

✓ STEP 3 — ROLE CARDS (TAKE ONE EACH)

Now switch: for 8 minutes YOU play an AI agent. Do your role's job SILENTLY on your own paper — no questions. Papers never move mid-round; at the 4-minute call the Critic reads the Planner's list over their shoulder. Time's up: everyone passes their OWN paper one seat left — you're the leader again.

PLANNER

0–4 min: number the steps. Card silent on something (the card doesn't say)? Don't guess — write "NOT ON THE CARD." 4–8 min: add a time guess to every step and star the one step most likely to go wrong.

SCOUT

List every fact the quest needs. Mark each ✓ (we know it for sure — say how) or ? (needs checking — say where).

CRITIC

0–4 min: write 2 things the audience on the card cares about. At the 4-minute call, read the Planner's list and write 3 upgrades to it. "Make it better" is banned.

FOR THE TEACHER

Teacher Guide & Answer Key

Lead Your AI Squad — why it works, an exemplar for every student item (quest card, all three roles, a filled CHECK row and note, the exit ticket), what-ifs, and the taught/assessed standards map.

WHY THIS LESSON

It stands alone — every skill it uses is re-taught in miniature on the page. The idea: an AI agent does a multi-step job on its own — and where your card is vague, it guesses forward. So the human job moves from doing the work to leading it: write the job down (the quest card), split it into roles, and check what comes back before it ships. For the adults in the room, a quest card is what work calls a brief or a spec, and this loop is delegation — a skill students may one day use to run real projects and real AI tools; nobody can promise exactly how those tools will look. (If your class did the earlier lessons, they will see the rerun: the quest card is the genie-proof prompt, the accuracy check is the fact desk, the feedback check is the feedback eye.)

EXEMPLAR QUEST CARD (GAME NIGHT — THE BOARD GAME)

GOAL: get 6th graders to actually show up to Game Night. WHAT WE KNOW: Friday, gym, 6–8 pm; we have board games and two TVs. RULES OF THE RUN: appropriate, big readable title, 40 words max. DONE LOOKS LIKE: one flyer draft, ready to photocopy.

How to score any quest card (Step 3 and Exit #1): hand it to the most literal reader in the room. If they can twist it, or have to guess, it's missing or vague. Proficient = all four parts, specific enough that a stranger could do it tomorrow. Developing = parts present but vague ("make it good," "soon"). Beginning = a wish, not a quest card ("help me with math").

EXEMPLAR SQUAD OUTPUT (STEP 3 — SANA'S SQUAD, GAME NIGHT CARD)

ROLE	WHAT GOOD OUTPUT LOOKS LIKE
Planner (DeShawn)	1. Pick the games and the TV set-up (5 min). 2. Write the flyer title and the when/where line (5 min). 3. ★ Add a 40-word pitch (10 min). 4. Count the words, check every rule (3 min). 5. NOT ON THE CARD: who photocopies it, and how many? Score: numbered and timed, one step starred, and the flag instead of a guess — the flags are gold; they're the next card's fixes.
Scout (Lucia)	Friday ✓ (on the card) · gym ✓ (on the card) · 6–8 pm ✓ (on the card) · both TVs actually work? ? (ask whoever runs the gym) · how many 6th graders there are ? (the front office). Score: every ✓ has a "how we know"; every ? has a "where to check." A fact with neither is a guess wearing a costume.
Critic (Sana)	0–4 min, what the audience cares about: which games, and whether friends are going. Upgrades: (1) Put the TVs and the games in the title — 6th graders come for the games, not the date. (2) Cut the 40 words to 25; nobody reads a wall of text on a wall. (3) Add one line for parents: pick-up is at 8. Score: each upgrade names the exact change and ties it to the audience on the card. "Make it better" counts for nothing.

THE PARTY LEADER LESSON • LESSON 6 OF 6

Lead Your AI Squad

45 minutes, no prep. The hook: an AI agent does a multi-step job on its own — and where your card is vague, it guesses forward. Stands alone.

AT A GLANCE

TIME	MATERIALS	TECH NEEDED	PREP
45 min	Run the Quest worksheet (2 pp; typeable PDF included) • Slides (optional) • scrap paper (1 per student) • board • Teacher Guide	None — unplugged. Optional: projector; your AI account (with-devices block, p.2)	Print worksheets. Plan teams of 3. That's it.

OBJECTIVES & STANDARDS

- Write a four-part quest card an agent can't misread. (Step 2; Exit #1)
- Do one squad role (planner, scout, critic) silently — no questions asked. (Step 3; Exit #2)
- Review work with the CHECK rubric; write a specific run-it-back note. (Step 4; Exit #3)

☑ WARM-UP — IT DID EXACTLY WHAT YOU SAID (7 MIN)

Your new party member: maxed stats, never sleeps, never complains — painfully literal. Last night's run:

"Guard the door." → Guarded the door. Only the door. The enemies came in through the window.

"Grab everything in the chest." → Everything. Including the cursed amulet with the obvious skull on it.

"Wait here." → Still waiting. It has been three in-game days.

Then ask: whose fault is that — the party member's, or the orders?

Bridge: AI agent does a multi-step job on its own — and where your card is vague, it guesses forward. That's why the leader checks. You'll never out-work it. You CAN out-lead it."

What if nobody laughs? Take a fourth order from the room and ruin it too: "Heal me" → healed you. Once.

Transition: "Today you learn the leader's loop: quest card, roles, check the loot — ship it or run it back."

DIRECT INSTRUCTION — THE PARTY LEADER'S LOOP (10 MIN)

Board: QUEST CARD → ROLES → CHECK THE LOOT → SHIP IT or RUN IT BACK.

QUEST CARD — four parts, in writing: goal (what winning means), what we know (who it's for, what the team has), rules of the run (length, tone, deadline), done looks like (the exact thing handed back). (If your class did the genie lesson: this is P.R.O. grown up.)

ROLES — nobody solos the raid: a planner, a scout, a critic — same card, one slice each.

CHECK THE LOOT — accuracy (facts match the card; every ✓ has a "how we know"), taste (fits the audience and tone — or could it be for anybody?), done-ness (everything the card asked for?). Weak work gets a run-it-back note: keep + fix.
