THE PARTY LEADER LESSON

Lead Your AI Squad

AI does the quest —
YOU check it before it ships.

Grades 6–8

45-min lesson

No prep • No devices needed

STUDENT SESSION • YOU'RE THE PARTY LEADER

Run the Quest

Name: _____ Class: _____ Date: _____

Everyone is a party member AND a leader. In Steps 1–2 you're the leader; in Step 3 you switch and play an AI agent for your team's card; in Step 4 you're the leader again. An AI agent does a whole job, step by step, on its own — and if your card leaves something out, the agent usually fills the gap with a guess and keeps going. So the leader checks, using the loop: QUEST CARD → ROLES → CHECK THE LOOT → SHIP IT or RUN IT BACK.

Party = your team of 3; a party member does one job. Roles = who does which slice. Quest card = the job, written down in four parts. Loot = the finished work. SHIP IT = finished and correct, send it. RUN IT BACK = do it again.

✓ STEP 1 — PICK YOUR QUEST (TEAM OF 3, CHECK ONE)

☐

GAME NIGHT PAGE — a one-page flyer that gets grades 6–8 to show up

☐

CLASS MAGAZINE, ISSUE #1 — the plan for the first issue of a magazine your class makes

✓ STEP 2 — WRITE THE QUEST CARD (ONE PER TEAM)

One person writes all four parts — the card-holder. The other two can GOAL and DONE LOOKS LIKE onto their own sheets.

GOAL

What does winning mean?

WHAT WE KNOW

Who is it for and what does the team already have?

RULES OF THE RUN

Limits: length, tone, deadline

DONE LOOKS LIKE

The exact thing handed back

THE PARTY LEADER LESSON • LESSON 6 OF 6

Lead Your AI Squad

45 minutes, no prep. The hook: an AI agent does a whole job, step by step, on its own — and if your card leaves something out, the agent usually fills the gap with a guess and keeps going.

AT A GLANCE

TIME	MATERIALS	TECH NEEDED	PREP
45 min	Run the Quest worksheet (3 pages; typeable PDF included) • Slides (optional) • scrap paper (1 per student) • board • Teacher Guide	None — unplugged. Optional: projector; your AI account (with-devices block, p.2)	Print worksheets. Plan teams of 3. That's it.

OBJECTIVES & STANDARDS

- Write a four-part quest card an agent can't misread. (Step 2; Exit #1)
- Do one squad role (planner, scout, critic) silently — no questions asked. (Step 3; Exit #2)
- Review work with the CHECK rubric; write a specific run-it-back note. (Step 4; Exit #3)

WARM-UP — IT DID EXACTLY WHAT YOU SAID (6 MIN)

Your new party member: maxed stats, never sleeps, never complains — painfully literal. Last night's run:

"Guard the door." → Guarded the door. Only the door. The enemies came in through the window.
 "Grab everything in the chest." → Everything. Including the cursed amulet with the obvious skull on it.
 "Wait here." → Still waiting. It has been three in-game days.

Then ask: whose fault was that — the party member's, or the orders?

Bridge: An AI agent does a whole job, step by step, on its own — and if your card leaves something out, the agent usually fills the gap with a guess and keeps going. That's why the leader checks. You'll never out-work it. You CAN out-lead it."

What if nobody laughs? Take a fourth order from the room and ruin it too: "Heal me" → healed you. Once.

Transition: "Today you learn the leader's loop: quest card, roles, check the loot — ship it or run it back."

DIRECT INSTRUCTION — THE PARTY LEADER'S LOOP (9 MIN)

Board: QUEST CARD → ROLES → CHECK THE LOOT → SHIP IT or RUN IT BACK.

QUEST CARD — four parts, in writing: goal (what winning means), what we know (who it's for, what the team has), rules of the run (length, tone, deadline), done looks like (the exact thing handed back). (If your class did the genie lesson: this is P.R.O. grown up.)

ROLES — nobody solos the raid: a planner, a scout, a critic — same card, one slice each.

CHECK THE LOOT — accuracy (facts match the card; every ✓ has a "how we know"), taste (fits the audience and tone — or could it be for anyone at all?), done-ness (everything the card asked for?). Weak work gets a run-it-back note: keep + fix.

✓ ANSWER KEY — EXIT TICKET (WORKSHEET P.3)

ITEM	WHAT A GOOD ANSWER LOOKS LIKE
#1 — quest card for a real task (Objective 1)	Exemplar (a study plan): GOAL: pass Friday's fractions quiz with at least a B. WHAT WE KNOW: 7th grade math; I have the review sheet and 30 minutes a night, Monday to Thursday. RULES OF THE RUN: only fractions with different denominators, no calculator, nothing due before Wednesday. DONE LOOKS LIKE: a four-night plan, 5 practice problems a night, answers on a separate line. Score with the quest-card scale on p.1.
#2 — which role first, and why (Objective 2)	Any role earns credit if the reason fits the task: scout first for a fact-heavy flyer ("I need the real dates before anyone plans"); planner first for a schedule ("the steps ARE the job"); critic first when the audience is picky ("my little brother won't follow a boring chore list"). The reason is what scores; a role with no reason is Developing.
#3 — the check it would most likely fail (Objective 3)	Any check with something real to look for: "ACCURACY — the quiz date and which chapter"; "TASTE — is it written for a 12-year-old or for a teacher?"; "DONE-NESS — did it give all four nights, or stop at two?" Proficient names the check AND the specific thing to look for; a check alone is Developing.

WHEN IT GOES SIDEWAYS

The class doesn't divide by 3 → a team of 4 runs two critics (both read the plan; they'll disagree — great). A team of 2 drops the critic; the leader does the taste check personally.

A leader turns harsh → KEEP before FIX, and the leader reads the note aloud to their party member.

A team finishes early → rewrite the quest card so tight the critic can't land a note — or design a fourth squad role and its one-line job.

A card is hopelessly vague and the squad stalls → don't rescue it. "It's not on the card" is the only mid-round answer; in leader review the RUN IT BACK lands on the card, not the party member. That public, fixable failure is the lesson. (With devices: the projected AI invents a fact — best case. "Which missing rule let it do that?" Add it, run it again.)

FULL STANDARDS TEXT

- ISTE 1.5.c — Students break problems into component parts, extract key information, and develop descriptive models to understand complex systems or facilitate problem-solving. Taught: the Party Leader's Loop instruction (a project broken into four card parts and three roles). Assessed: the Step 2 quest card and Exit Ticket #1, scored with the quest-card scale on p.1.
- ISTE 1.7.c — Students contribute constructively to project teams, assuming various roles and responsibilities to work effectively toward a common goal. Taught: Run the Quest (every student works one role, then leads one review). Assessed: the Step 3 role output (scored against the exemplar squad output, p.2), the Step 4 CHECK rubric and run-it-back note, and Exit Ticket #2.
- CCSS ELA W.6.4 — Produce clear and coherent writing in which the development, organization, and style are appropriate to task, purpose, and audience. (Grade-specific expectations for writing types are defined in standards 1-3 above.) Taught: quest-card modeling in direct instruction (goal, audience, rules, output). Assessed: Exit Ticket #1 — a four-part quest card written for a real task and audience, scored Proficient / Developing / Beginning.
