My Taste File

Name: _____ Class: _____ Date: _____

Your For-You Page didn't guess your taste (what you like and how you like it) — you taught the app, one like at a time. An AI doesn't know your taste unless you tell it, or it has saved notes about you. So write yours down in the five sections below. Your editor (the partner who gives you notes) can use ONLY what's on this page.

♥ SECTION 1 — THE VIBE

Check the 3 tone words (the mood your words give off) that sound most like you:

- | | |
|---|---|
| ☐ funny | ☐ chill (calm, relaxed) |
| ☐ loud and excited | ☐ dreamy (soft and floaty) |
| ☐ quiet | ☐ blunt (says it plain) |
| ☐ dramatic | ☐ poetic (pretty words) |
| ☐ bold (fearless) | ☐ mysterious (keeps secrets) |

One tone word of your own:

♥ SECTION 2 — HOW I LIKE IT

Check every format you actually enjoy reading:

- | |
|--|
| ☐ short and punchy (gets to the point fast) |
| ☐ story mode |
| ☐ lists |
| ☐ step-by-step |
| ☐ big idea first, details after |

♥ SECTION 3 — PET PEEVES (THINGS YOU HATE)

Finish this sentence two ways. (Example: "Editor, never make me sound like a textbook.")

- Editor, never _____
- Editor, never _____

♥ SECTION 4 — SO ME / NOT ME

Write one sentence about your weekend that sounds exactly like you. Then say the same thing in a voice that is NOT you — a robot, a textbook, a fancy poet.

SO ME

NOT ME

♥ SECTION 5 — WHAT I'M INTO RIGHT NOW

Music, shows, and games. Give the feel, not the name ("fast anime-style battles," "sad songs on repeat"):

The Editor's Chair

The loop: YOU draft → your editor gives notes → YOU revise. You are the writer. Your editor is your partner, playing the AI. They read your taste file, give 2 notes, and never rewrite.

♥ STEP 1 — DRAFT IT YOURSELF

Write 3–4 sentences: the About Me for a channel or profile page you would really make. Make it match your taste file. No AI, no partner.

♥ STEP 2 — THE EDITOR'S NOTES

Swap ALL pages with your partner. Now you are the EDITOR. (1) Read their taste file on page 1. (2) Read their draft. (3) Write 2 notes in the boxes below. Each note names a section (1–5) and says what doesn't match it. Notes only. Never write their sentence for them.

A good note sounds like this: "Section 1 says funny and blunt — sentence 2 sounds like a homework robot. Say it like you'd text a friend."

Note 1 — points at taste-file section # _____

Note 2 — points at taste-file section # _____

♥ THEN TALK — 2 MINUTES

Speaker 1 is the partner whose first name comes first in the alphabet. Speaker 1 is the editor for the first minute: read your two notes out loud. Writer: ask ONE question. Editor: answer from THEIR taste file — never your own taste. Then switch: Speaker 2 is the editor for minute two. Then swap sheets back.

The writer's question: "Which sentence?" or "What would fit?"

Revise & Last Check

Sheets swapped back? Good. From here on, this page is yours — your draft, your pen.

★ STEP 3 — REVISE IT YOURSELF

Copy your draft below. Change only the sentences your notes point at, plus any word that has to change with them. Star (*) every change. Your editor does not write a single word for you.

EDITOR LOOP CHECKLIST

I wrote the first draft myself — no AI, no copying.

☐

My editor's notes each named a section and said what to change, not "make it better."

☐

I made the changes myself and starred every one.

☐

My editor read both notes aloud, I asked one question, and they answered from my taste file.

☐

★ LAST CHECK

1. The one word or phrase you changed (old → new):

2. The new version fits my taste file because (name the section):

3. Why would the note "make it better" NOT have helped you?

Be honest with yourself: if the editor writes your sentence, your name is on words you never wrote — and you'd know it. Your draft, your pen, your taste.
